2nd Annual Haunted History at the Briggie House

Breckenridge, CO - On October 31st, trick-or-treaters can meet some of Breckenridge's early residents at a "Haunted History" event at the Briggie House.

From 4:30-8 p.m., a cast of characters from Breckenridge's early days will hand out candy and lead kids and adults on a haunting tour of the Briggie House. Some of the historic figures that will be present include: Katie Briggie, who played wonderful recitals in her home and is still believed by some to haunt the Briggie House today; George Milne, the Briggie's next door neighbor, who was tragically killed in a railroad accident; Ada Finding, who, in 1888, was pronounced dead and came back to life, albeit only for a day; and, Edwin Carter, a taxidermist and naturalist who collected and stuffed thousands of local wildlife specimens. Halloween guests may even see an outhouse haunted by two Italian miners who were poisoned to death by the outhouse seepage.

Haunted History at the Briggie House is presented by the Summit Historical Society and the Breckenridge Heritage Alliance. The Briggie House is located at 104 N. Harris St. and will be open from 4:30-8 p.m. on October 31st. This event is free to the public.
